Peggy brings an extensive and eclectic background to BLUBERYL. Her wide breadth of experience has had a positive impact on hundreds of students across five states and on the Navajo Nation. Peggy has been a teacher, college instructor, school administrator, financial advisor, and a geologist! Kind, thoughtful, and patient, Peggy's life work has been dedicated to building up others and helping them achieve their potential. Reading and cooking bring Peggy great joy, as does spending time with her two adult children.

Peggy holds a bachelor of arts degree in geology, a master's degree in elementary education, and a doctorate in educational administration. Before beginning her day with BLUBERYL students, Peggy enjoys the magnificent sunrises that grace Wyoming's North Platte Valley.
